TWENTY-FOURTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Forgiveness

This year marks the tenth anniversary of a senseless murder in our quiet community. Christie, a teenage girl, was stalked and killed by a man now serving a life sentence in prison. Ten years later, Christie's parents have requested permission to visit their daughter's murderer. It has taken some time, but Christie's parents know that the only way to heal this unthinkable injury is to forgive it.

FIRST READING: Sirach 27:30 — 28:7    RESPONSORIAL PSALM: Psalm 103:1-2, 3-4, 9-10, 11-12
SECOND READING: Romans 14:7-9    GOSPEL: Matthew 18:21-35

Comment

Sirach provides a perfect foundation for today's Gospel. Nearly two hundred years before Jesus preached the parable of the unforgiving servant, Sirach's son wrote this wisdom book to help the people of his day live in harmony with God's creation. He cautioned people to let go of their anger. You can almost see them clutch it tightly as though it were a priceless gem. Our own sins will be forgiven, he tells us, if we forgive others. We must show mercy if we are to receive it.

Jesus illustrates this wisdom absolutely when Peter asks how often we need to forgive someone who's hurt us. The king forgave the enormous debt of his servant, but the servant demanded payment and punishment when a fellow slave could not pay what he owed.

Have you ever paid off a large debt? Perhaps it was a car, a college loan, or your mortgage? It's a joyful feeling. But imagine one step further (or maybe this has actually happened to you). By some serendipitous event, the money appeared unexpectedly. The weight of the world was lifted as you crawled out from underneath the burden of debt. Isn't it strange that the servant's response to his fellow slave was one of greed and anger just after something so wonderful had happened? We might wonder if more was troubling the servant than just his debt.

Reflection

We ask God to forgive our sins. We know we are forgiven. Jesus died for just that purpose. God, then, is the great king who forgave his servant (you and me). But what happens when our peers come forward and ask for our forgiveness? Is it possible that our own greatest sin is our inability to forgive one person in our own lives?

Jesus told Peter that we must forgive seventy-seven times. It was never intended that we keep a ledger, but the main idea is that we forgive over and over. This should give us some practice at being humble and gracious. But in the reverse, when we ask someone for forgiveness, we must be willing to try to correct our wrongdoing. We must be willing to change something of ourselves in order not to repeat the hurt.
